

Subject: Applications for Career-Prep Fellowship (from Stanford) in collaboration with UAF are currently open!

Dear UAF Faculty and students hope you're doing well!

We wanted to reach out and request you to share the opportunity of Amal Career Prep fellowship -- a 3 months job skills training Program started at Stanford University -- with your students via email so that they can apply for the training. Application deadline is on Sept 24, so we have drafted the below email which can be circulated as soon as it's convenient for you.

We are really excited to inform you that applications for Amal Career Prep Fellowship are currently open at amalacademy.org/apply until September 24th!

The Amal Career Prep Fellowship is launched in collaboration with Amal Academy to prepare students for today's competitive market. The fellowship is a 3 month intensive leadership program— developed out of Stanford University and in partnership with UAF. The fellowship develops business and professional skills (communication, problem solving, interview skills, teamwork, and leadership) needed to secure and succeed in quality job.

Over the past 3 years, Amal Academy has worked with nearly 500 students in 3-month Career Prep Fellowship, developing their professional skills by over 120%. And over 90% of their fellows have gotten job offers.

We are currently accepting applications for the classes at UAF campus, therefore we would really encourage you to apply for the training session and spread the word around.

Please note full and partial scholarships are available for any and all deserving students. For further information, please visit our website or Facebook page.

Please feel free to reach out to us in case of any questions/queries at fellowship@amalacademy.org. We look forward to receiving your application.
